

EnaMoMa by PSL offers Master's - level programs, Summer School classes, as well as continuing education courses, and is developing doctoral level research programs.

The Ecole Nationale de Mode & Matière (EnaMoMa by PSL) will provide training in every fashion and textile profession (from hand-crafted garments to Haute Couture garments to clothing designed for industrial functions), and will address contemporary questions of production flow and marketing as well as concerns about the world of tomorrow by bringing together to expertise of its three partners: the Ecole nationale supérieure des Arts Décoratifs (EnsAD), Mines ParisTech, and Université Paris Dauphine, partners and members of PSL Research University Paris.

They have come together to create the first public institution of fashion, textile and materials design (EnaMoMa by PSL), benefiting from the highest level of excellence for each of its components: design with EnsAD; management with Université Paris Dauphine; engineering, materials, production, logistics, technical and technological innovation with Mines ParisTech. Thanks to the quality and reputation of its three partners institutions and the high level of training

École
Nationale
de Mode
et Matière
Paris
Fashion School by PSL

in clothing and textile design that currently exists at EnsAD, this new school is already a reference in the field.

The enrollments for the competition are open until 29th June 2018 at 5 pm.

Candidates must complete the administrative application file on the competition's portal:

<https://enamoma.ensad.fr>